v.

DEPARTMENT OF ALCOHOLIC beverage CONTROL,
Respondent

Administrative Law Judge at the Dept. Hearing: Mathew G. Ainley

Appeals Board Hearing: September 2, 2010
Los Angeles, CA

ISSUED NOVEMBER 10, 2010

7-Eleven, Inc., Victoria Jamreonvit and Miguel Miranda, doing business as 7-Eleven Store 2175-17165D (appellants), appeal from a decision of the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control<sup>1</sup> which suspended their license for 15 days for their clerk, Leandro Aguilera-Garcia, having sold a 12-pack of Bud Light beer to Moriah Brown, a 17-year-old Department minor decoy, a violation of Business and Professions Code section 25658, subdivision (a).

Appearances on appeal include appellants 7-Eleven, Inc., Victoria Jamreonvit and Miguel Miranda, appearing through their counsel, Ralph B. Saltsman and Stephen W. Solomon, and the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control, appearing through its counsel, Kerry K. Winters.

<sup>1</sup>The decision of the Department, dated September 3, 2009, is set forth in the appendix.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Appellants' off-sale beer and wine license was issued on January 13, 2009. On March 19, 2009 the Department instituted an accusation against appellants charging the sale of an alcoholic beverage to a minor on January 16, 2009.

At the administrative hearing held on July 14, 2009, documentary evidence was received and testimony concerning the violation charged was presented by Brown, the minor decoy, Anthony Posada, a Department supervising investigator, and Dolisa Perez, a Department investigator. Appellants presented no witnesses. Before testimony began, appellants presented a Motion to Disqualify the administrative law judge (ALJ) hearing the case, along with a supporting declaration by appellants' attorney. The ALJ denied the motion.<sup>2</sup>

Subsequent to the hearing, the Department issued its decision which determined that the charge of the violation had been established.

Appellants have filed an appeal contending that the decision should be reversed; the motion to disqualify ALJ Mathew Ainley, based upon his recent role as prosecutor against one of the licensees (7-Eleven, Inc.), was improperly denied.

DISCUSSION

Appellants contend that ALJ Mathew Ainley, who conducted the administrative hearing, should have disqualified himself from hearing the case because previously, as a staff counsel to the Department he prosecuted many cases against co-licensee 7-Eleven, Inc. Appellants assert that Judge Ainley was still a prosecutor when the violation occurred, and when the accusation was signed and filed, but do not allege that he had any involvement in this particular case.

<sup>2</sup> Appellants do not contest the determination that a violation occurred. Thus, discussion of the specific facts of the case is unnecessary.

An ALJ "shall voluntarily disqualify himself or her self and withdraw from any case in which there are grounds for disqualification, including disqualification under Section 11425.40." (Gov. Code § 11512, subd. (c).) A party may request disqualification of an ALJ. (Ibid.)

Government Code section 11425.40, subdivision (a), states that an ALJ is "subject to disqualification for bias, prejudice, or interest in the proceeding."

Appellants rely on application of the Code of Judicial Ethics (CJE) which, with some exceptions and modifications to conform it to the circumstances of administrative adjudication, is incorporated by reference in the Administrative Adjudication Code of Ethics (AACE) (Gov. Code, § 11475 et seq.) and "governs the hearing and nonhearing conduct of an administrative law judge." (Gov. Code, § 11475.20.)

Canon 3E of the CJE provides:

(1) A judge shall disqualify himself or herself in any proceeding in which disqualification is required by law

(2) In all trial court proceedings, a judge shall disclose on the record information that is reasonably relevant to the question of disqualification under Code of Civil Procedure section 170.1, even if the judge believes there is no actual basis for disqualification.

Code of Civil Procedure section 170.1 (hereafter section 170.1)<sup>3</sup> sets out

<sup>3</sup> Code of Civil Procedure section 170.1 provides, in the parts relied upon by appellants:

(a) A judge shall be disqualified if any one or more of the following is true:

(2)(A) The judge served as a lawyer in the proceeding, or in any other proceeding involving the same issues he or she served as a lawyer for any party in the present proceeding or gave advice to any party in the present proceeding upon any matter involved in the action or proceeding.

(B) A judge shall be deemed to have served as a lawyer in the proceeding if within the past two years:

(I) A party to the proceeding or an officer, director, or trustee of a party

grounds for disqualification of judges. Appellants argue that under this section, a judge is disqualified if, within the past two years, he or she served as a lawyer for a public agency that is a party to the proceeding, "personally advis[ing] or in any way represent[ing] the public agency concerning the factual or legal issues in the proceeding."

The Department points out that section 170.1 is applicable only to "judges of the superior courts, and court commissioners and referees." (Code Civ. Proc., § 170.5, subd. (a).) Appellants argue (or at least imply) that case law supports the application of section 170.1 to administrative proceedings. They quote Gai v. City of Selma (1998) 68 Cal.App.4th 213, 222 [79 Cal.Rptr.2d 910]<sup>4</sup> (Gai):

In Gray v. City of Gustine (1990) 224 Cal.App.3d 621 [273 Cal.Rptr. 730] we acknowledged that Andrews held that section 170.1, subdivision (a)(1), and sections 170.2 through 170.4, although written for state court judges, should apply to administrative hearings as well. (224 Cal.App.3d at p. 632.)

The quote, taken out of context, does not support their position. Later in the Gai decision the court stated, referring to the language just quoted: "To the extent our was a client of the judge when the judge was in the private practice of law or a client of a lawyer with whom the judge was associated in the private practice of law.

(C) A judge who served as a lawyer for or officer of a public agency that is a party to the proceeding shall be deemed to have served as a lawyer in the proceeding if he or she personally advised or in any way represented the public agency concerning the factual or legal issues in the proceeding.

<sup>4</sup>We note with disapproval appellants' failure to provide pinpoint cites for this quoted language and in all but one of the six other case citations used in appellants' brief. This Board is not required to search through the pages of a decision to find a quotation appellants have used to support their argument. If appellants cannot properly cite the authority they use, we may be compelled simply to ignore it.

comment in Gray may be construed as suggesting the Supreme Court decided that question, we were obviously in error." The court went on to explain the context of its statement in Gray and the dissimilarity of that case to Gai, concluding: "This was the context in which we made the perhaps overly expansive statement that Andrews [v. Agricultural Labor Relations Bd. (1981) 28 Cal.3d 781 [171 Cal.Rptr. 590] (Andrews)] held that 'these sections should apply to administrative hearing officers as well' as judges." (Gai, supra, 68 Cal.App.4th at p. 231, italics added.)

We believe an ALJ cannot be disqualified under section 170.1 because that statute does not apply to ALJ's. (Code Civ. Proc., § 170.5, subd. (a).) (See County of San Diego v. Alcoholic Beverage Control Appeals Bd. (2010) 184 Cal.App.4th 396, 406 [109 Cal.Rptr.3d 59]. Specific provisions in the Administrative Procedure Act (APA) (Gov. Code §§ 11340-11529) deal with disqualifications of ALJ's – e.g., Government Code sections 11512 and 11425.40. For purposes of the AACE, the provisions of the CJE are considered and applied only to the extent they are relevant in the context of administrative proceedings. Section 170.1 is not made applicable to administrative law judges simply because the CJE mentions that section.

Appellants have not shown that ALJ Ainley should have been disqualified pursuant to Government Code section 11425.40, subdivision (a), for bias, prejudice, or interest in the proceeding. The appearance of bias is insufficient for disqualification of an ALJ: "[T]he moving party [must be] able to demonstrate concretely the actual existence of bias." (Andrews, supra, 28 Cal.3d at p. 793.) In addition, " 'the prejudice must be against a particular party . . . and sufficient to impair the judge's impartiality so that it appears probable that a fair trial cannot be held.' " (Andrews, supra, at p. 792, quoting from and adding italics to Ensher, Alexander & Barsoom v. Ensher (1964) 225 Cal.App.2d 318, 322 [37 Cal.Rptr. 327].) Simply reciting that ALJ Ainley represented the Department and may have provided advice to Department investigators and administrators in cases involving co-appellant 7-Eleven, Inc., does not establish that concrete, particularized bias required to be shown for disqualification.

Appellants also argue that ALJ Ainley should be disqualified under Government Code section 11425.30, which provides that specified persons are not to serve as presiding officers. They appear to rely on subdivision (a)(1) of section 11425.30, which provides that a person may not serve as a presiding officer if he or she "has served as investigator, prosecutor, or advocate in the proceeding or its preadjudicative stage." Appellants allege that ALJ Ainley participated in the investigation and advocacy against appellants as well as being the adjudicator. However, there is absolutely no evidence that ALJ Ainley participated as anything other than adjudicator with respect to this proceeding.

Appellants have provided no evidence that would justify the disqualification of ALJ Ainley. It was not error for him to deny appellants' Motion to Disqualify.

ORDER

The decision of the Department is affirmed.<sup>5</sup>
